

Become a community scientist with Creek Critters

There's a whole world of critters in our streams! Creek Critters is a fun and easy tool to help collect and identify aquatic critters and discover what they can tell us about the health of our water.

1

Download the free Creek Critters app to your iOS or Android device.

2

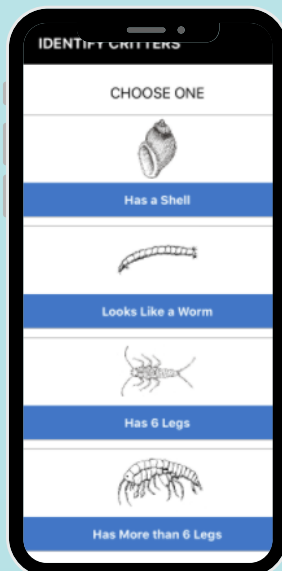

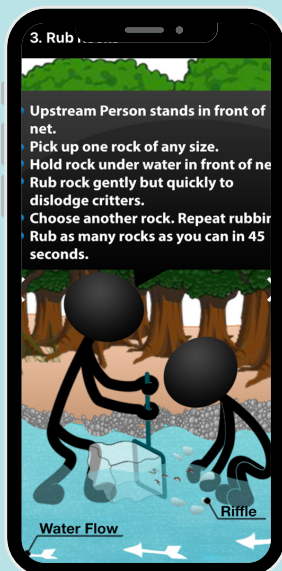

Gather your field supplies: water shoes or boots, a small aquarium net, a small pan or bucket, a hand lens, and a partner!

3

Follow simple step-by-step instructions in the app to collect bugs in your stream.

4

Identify bugs with the app's interactive ID guide. Explore pictures and videos to figure out who's who!

Your results will become part of the Clean Water Hub, a national water quality monitoring database! Explore the Hub and find out more about water quality in your community at www.cleanwaterhub.org.
